"Renaissance and Medieval Medicine"

Science and history come alive as a Renaissance or Medieval costumed lecturer demonstrates the life and times of medicine's all-in-one practitioner, the barber-surgeon.

Learn about battlefield operations, surgical techniques, and the general state of physic in the Middle Ages. See tools, drawings, and equipment while various techniques are shown. Hear several historical and traditional stories.

Lectures, demos and presentations are available in varying lengths from 5, 10, 15, 30, 45, and 60 minutes for stationary audiences or passersby. Several old style documents and charts are available to the students as well.

"Russians in America's Past"

Russians in Early America – Explore the role of the Russian Empire in the discovery of Alaska, California and Hawaii. Re-learn the real reasons behind the Spanish Missions, Lewis & Clark, and the Monroe Doctrine. Students get maps, timelines and other papers including the Cyrillic alphabet.

Russians in Early California – Hear about Fort Ross and the story of Nikolai and Concepción, the Mexican military governor's daughter. Learn the Russian Empire's role in California's European settlements. Tools, furs and parchment handouts are included in the presentation.
